MBS Recap Matthew Graham | 4:04 PM

Ever since the FAA ground stop and Microsoft outage at the end of last week, markets have been on high alert for additional tech-related outages. Whether it's due to that vigilance or an actual uptick in underlying problems, today's news cycle was happy to oblige the concern. The most notable development was a data system outage at the NSA. Separately, there were other outages reported by Apple and Microsoft. There was also an alert put out by the FBI regarding AI-related exploit vulnerability. All of the above (but mostly the NSA stuff) caused stocks to swoon. Bonds benefited from a very modest flight to safety which helped Treasuries and MBS turn green around 10:30am ET. After that, trading was fairly uneventful into the close.

and S&P is near multi-month lows.

Lock / Float Considerations

- 11/17/26 - The correction to October's rally trend seems to have leveled off for now, but recent movement is a bit deceptive. Rates haven't really resumed moving lower even as the S&P hit new multi-month lows today. This argues for maintaining a defensive stance until we see actual evidence of new, bullish momentum in bonds.
