A Clear Reaction to Data Without Any Major Drama

MBS Recap | Matthew Graham | 4:59 PM

After this morning's initial reaction to Initial Jobless Claims, the rest of the day was uneventful and sideways. By 9:00am, 10yr yields had risen about 4bps to 3.866--which was the exact same level seen at the 3pm close. MBS outperformed in day over day terms, but had a distinct moment of underperformance just after 3pm. From here, we get into consistent daily doses of big ticket econ data culminating in next Friday's jobs report. Volatility potential is increasing accordingly.

|----------|--|
| 08:48 AM | Modestly stronger overnight but losing ground after 8:30am data. MBS down 2 ticks (.06) and 10yr up 3bps at 3.866. |
| 11:20 AM | weakest levels with MBS down an eighth and 10yr up 4.3bps at 3.879 |
| 02:34 PM | small rally in PM hours. MBS down only 2 ticks and 10yr up 2.9bps at 3.864 |
| 04:51 PM | Off the weakest levels heading into the close with MBS down 3 ticks (.09) and 10yr yields up 2.7bps at 3.863 |

Lock / Float Considerations

- After Thursday's jobless claims data, bonds/rates remain well within the prevailing range. But the obvious responsiveness to the data suggests heightened volatility potential every day between now and next Friday's jobs report. Given that these levels have been well established, there's no directional implication from short term technicals. The next move should truly depend on the data.

Technicals/Trends in 10yr (why 10yr)

- Ceiling/Support (can be used as "lock triggers")
 - o 4.07
 - o 3.95
- Floor/Resistance
 - o 3.58
 - o 3.70
 - o 3.82
 - o 3.87
