Some Selling Pressure After Auction and Fed Minutes

There were no market-moving economic reports scheduled for today regardless of the government shutdown. That left the focus entirely on the afternoon events: the 1pm 10yr Treasury auction and the 2pm release of the Fed Minutes (a more detailed account of the Fed meeting 3 weeks ago). The auction was slightly weaker than expected, which accounted for most of the upward pressure in yields in the afternoon. The minutes didn't help (even if they didn't necessarily hurt). Notable comments included mention of a few members who would have been OK with no rate cut and a majority of members remaining concerned about inflation.

Lock / Float Considerations

- Risk/reward surrounding the lock/float decision remains muted during the government shutdown. The risk tolerant crowd is still waiting to see when the jobs report comes out after the government shutdown (as long as bonds don't lose too much ground between now and then).
