21501 N. 78th Ave Peoria AZ 85382 Company NMLS# 2512600 Individual NMLS#1493357 Bonds held their ground on Friday, but required some help from weaker economic data to do so. Compared to the past 2 sessions, volatility was much lower and losses may not have been too severe, even without the data. Taken together, the past 3 days illustrate just how desperate the market is for actionable econ data. The incoming week is once again sparse in that regard. It will also be punctuated by a rare mid-week holiday on Tuesday. One side effect of that holiday is that it pushes the 3yr Treasury auction forward to Monday--something that may have added slightly to the early selling in bonds today.

Lock / Float Considerations

Heading into the weekend, bonds are confirming that they've found their footing following the midweek sell-off. They're also confirming that they'll need fresh inspiration if yields are to fall in a meaningful way.
