

MORTGAGE RATE WATCH

Daily Coverage. Industry Leading Perspective.

Rates Rise on Friday, Now Near 2-Month Highs

Mortgage rates were only modestly higher on Friday, but because of the narrow prevailing range and previous increases this week, that brings us right in line with 2-month highs.

Bonds (which dictate rates) began the day with promise. There was heavy buying (good for rates) in the 7am hour. This coincided with stocks challenging their lowest levels in weeks. But both stocks and bonds bounced back in the 9am hour. Bonds ultimately erased all of the morning's gains and, thus, the hope for today's mortgage rates to be lower than yesterday's.

Derek McGowan

Branch Manager/Senior
Loan Officer, McGowan
Mortgages

www.mcgowanmortgages.com

M: (816) 631-9687

dmcgowan@nexamortgage.com
1478470

