No Surprises From Powell. No Major Movement in Rates

MBS Recap | Matthew Graham | 4:15 PM

As expected, the Fed held rates steady today. The statement was moderately more hawkish in that it acknowledged progress on the labor market front and overall economy. To the very small extent that the statement was hawkish, Powell's press conference could be viewed as counterbalancing due to the non-threatening characterization of inflation and ongoing openness to additional easing if conditions justify it. Bonds are heading out the door almost exactly in line with opening levels and there wasn't much movement in between.

The screenshot shows the MBS LIVE software interface. It features several windows: a 'TIME, PRICING' table for MBS 30 Year, MBS 10 Year, and MBS 5 Year; a 'REAL TIME CHART (MBS)' for 30YR FINRA 4.0 showing a price of 106.75; a 'REAL TIME CHART (TREASURY)' for 10 Year Treasury showing a price of 1.8279; a 'LIVE NEWS STREAM' with a video player showing a video of the press conference; and a 'USA REPORTERS FORces' section. The interface is designed for monitoring financial markets in real-time.

Market Movement Recap

09:24 AM Just barely stronger overnight and sideways so far this morning. MBS unchanged and 10yr effectively unchanged at 4.248.

12:38 PM MBS down 1 tick (.03) and 10yr up 1.3bps at 4.259

03:10 PM Limited reaction to Fed. Gaining some ground as Powell presser continues. MBS up 1 tick (.03) and 10yr unchanged at 4.246

Lock / Float Considerations

- Mortgage rates have some insulation against broader bond market sell-offs due to GSE MBS purchases, but barring a big Treasury rally, the lower limit of the mortgage rate range was established in early January. One of two things is required for a meaningful push back toward lower rates: more selling to set an entry point for bond buyers, or legitimate deterioration in big ticket data (and there's none on the horizon until the first week of February).
