Best Levels in Weeks Ahead of High Stakes Jobs Report

MBS Recap | Matthew Graham | 3:05 PM

Rather than circle the wagons and consolidate the recent rally, bonds kicked the buying into higher gear on Tuesday thanks to a surprisingly weak Retail Sales report for December. This can be added to the list of recent data that has urged the bond market to get in position for a similarly weak jobs report tomorrow. Nearly 15bps of improvement in less than a week means that jobs would have to especially downbeat for this pace to continue. If the report surprises to the upside, bonds are at risk of a reasonably brisk correction, but as always, the scope of potential volatility depends on the deviation from the median forecast.

The MBS Live platform is a comprehensive financial news and data service. It features a 'REAL TIME PRICING' section with tables for 30-Year, 10-Year, and 5-Year bonds, and a 'REAL TIME CHART' section for 30-Year, 10-Year, and 5-Year Treasuries. The 'LIVE NEWS STREAM' provides the latest financial news and updates. A 'GFC REPORTS ON PRICES' section discusses the impact of the Global Financial Crisis on bond prices. A 'LIVE CHAT' window on the right shows a real-time conversation between users, including topics like bond yields and market volatility.

02:55 PM Drifting sideways into the close with MBS up 2 ticks (.06) and 10yr yields down 6.1bps at 4.147

Lock / Float Considerations

- High risk / high reward ahead of Wednesday's jobs report, but it bears repeating that there's some measure of "lead-off" priced into current levels. Set-ups such as this have preceded some explosive rallies as well as some painful corrections. No way to know which one it will be ahead of time. Tuesday's Retail Sales extended the rate-friendly lead-off and created a good lock opportunity for risk-averse clients.
