Roughly Unchanged After Moderate Headline-Driven Volatility

MBS Recap | Matthew Graham | 3:54 PM

As has been the recent custom, there were dueling headlines concerning the Iran war today with opposing claims regarding the status of the Israel/Lebanon ceasefire. If that sounds like kind of a stretch when it comes to bond market significance, bond traders agreed. That said, it was still traded to some extent. This resulted in mid-day volatility that took bonds from slightly weaker to slightly stronger territory, and then back to being roughly unchanged. Econ data was a relative non-event in the morning, but Friday's data has a slightly better chance of garnering a response.

Lock / Float Considerations

- 4/9/26 - Bonds seem to be getting more and more desensitized to war-related headlines. They've also done a good job of avoiding any major selling except when that selling marks a rebound from even stronger buying (like Wednesday). In general, there's been more room for risk-tolerant views this week vs last, but risks increase a bit as we head into the weekend, and even as we wait for Friday AM's econ data.
