Bonds Reprise Familiar Role as a Safe Haven Amid Renewed Rout in Stocks

Market Summary: Wednesday, April 16, 2025 - 7:35PM

You've seen it plenty of times so far in 2025. You've wondered what the heck happened to it during last week's volatile tariff announcement aftermath. Now today, more than any other day this week, a good, old-fashioned flight to safety helped the bond market realize some decent gains. Powell's speech at 1:30pm ET was the clear catalyst, with warnings for the economy and reassurances for the bond market's smooth functioning. At this point, bonds are right back in line with the flat, narrow range seen between late February and late March.

The Big Calm-Down Continues. Powell on Deck

What a difference a week makes. The present example has been entirely different than the previous example in terms of volatility and directional movement. To reiterate our overarching thesis, April 2nd's staggering policy changes caused markets to go into a self-destruct sequence, thus leading to a policy pivot and a de-escalation of market turmoil. We're now playing a slower game made possible by some measure of faith that the administration will respond to warnings in markets if those warnings become grave enough. Last week, we had rampant uncertainty and panic. Now we just have rampant uncertainty. Data remains less interesting than normal in the short term, but the Fed policy response is always notable. We'll get an update from Powell this afternoon at 1:30pm ET which could help refine our understanding of how the Fed will balance tariff-driven inflation expectations versus the notion of cutting rates to offset tariff-driven economic softening.

Mortgage Rates Extend Winning Streak as Familiar Pattern Returns

As markets digested implications of several fiscal policy changes over the past 2 months, a predictable trading pattern emerged. Stocks and moved lower together. This isn't always the way things work, but it is typical during moments where investors are rapidly shedding risk and seeking safer havens.

The pattern broke down last week, for a variety of mostly arcane reasons. This meant that rates moved sharply higher even as stocks continued to fall. Although it's far too soon to declare victory against that volatility, we're now seeing the bond market (the thing that dictates interest rate movement) act a bit more like its normal self.

In other words, today's data and events contributed to heavy stock losses, and bonds were willing to pick up enough of the slack for interest rates to move lower. This is the 3rd straight day of declines and it brings the conventional 30yr fixed rate back under 6.875% for the average top tier conventional loan.
