Decent Gains Amid De-Escalation Headlines

Market Summary: Tuesday, March 24, 2026 - 6:51AM

Don't worry about what actually happened, who actually spoke to whom, and the details of the conversations that may or may not have happened. Today's simplest fact is that the President said things that can be filed under the heading of "de-escalation" of the Iran war and markets were obviously and immediately willing to respond. It's the response that's encouraging- regardless of the details. By no means does this constitute the big shift we're waiting for, but it at least suggests such a shift will be possible when the war is truly over.

MBS Well Off Highs

As Iran pushes back on news regarding talks with the US, bonds are quickly correcting.

MBS are still up 5 ticks (.16) on the day but down almost 3/8ths from the highs.

Lenders who aggressively repriced for the better in response to the earlier gains could now be considering negative reprices.

Mortgage Rates Move Modestly Lower Amid Market Volatility

are dictated by bonds and bonds had a volatile day. During overnight trading hours, bonds suggested we should brace for the impact of even higher rates. Things changed just after 7am ET following headlines that suggested progress on the Iran war.

Although volatility continued in the ensuing hours, bonds ultimately settled in stronger territory (which is good for rates).

After ending last week above 6.5% for the first time since early September, the average top-tier 30yr fixed rate fell back to 6.49% today. While it's a step in the right direction, it would take a much bigger improvement sustained over the course of several days (or even weeks) to mark a bigger picture turning point.

March is Regime Change Month For Rates

While the word "regime" is often seen in a geopolitical context, it's also common in financial markets. With respect to rates, the most recent regime involved steady improvement starting in May 2025 and ending 3 weeks ago. Since then, a new regime has been taking over and it kicked into high gear this week. Under the previous regime, bonds (which dictate rates) were operating on the following p...
