Victory For Cynics as Ceasefire Rebound is Already Over

Market Summary: Tuesday, March 24, 2026 - 10:05AM

Even though there were doubts about their scope and impact, yesterday morning's headlines introduced the prospect of some sort of ceasefire in the Iran war. Markets traded accordingly, including the "doubts" part (i.e. there was an initial rebound yesterday and an additional rebound this morning). 10yr yields have now fully erased yesterday morning's gains even though oil prices remain quite a bit lower.

Market Movement Recap

08:51 AM	Losing ground in choppy trading as oil rebounds. MBS down a quarter point and 10yr up 4.2bps at 4.389
09:54 AM	weakest levels. MBS down 11 ticks (.34) and 10yr up 6.2bps at 4.409

Weakest Levels of The Morning

MBS are now down 3/8ths on the day and more than a quarter point from the AM highs. Lenders who are already out with rates will likely have already accounted for most of the weakness. So there's limited--if any--negative reprice risk for today's rate sheets so far. But if you have access to lock yesterday's rates before today's come out, it's something to consider.

Mortgage Rates Move Modestly Lower Amid Market Volatility

are dictated by bonds and bonds had a volatile day. During overnight trading hours, bonds suggested we should brace for the impact of even higher rates. Things changed just after 7am ET following headlines that suggested progress on the Iran war.

Although volatility continued in the ensuing hours, bonds ultimately settled in stronger territory (which is good for rates).

After ending last week above 6.5% for the first time since early September, the average top-tier 30yr fixed rate fell back to 6.49% today. While it's a step in the right direction, it would take a much bigger improvement sustained over the course of several days (or even weeks) to mark a bigger picture turning point.

March is Regime Change Month For Rates

While the word "regime" is often seen in a geopolitical context, it's also common in financial markets. With respect to rates, the most recent regime involved steady improvement starting in May 2025 and ending 3 weeks ago. Since then, a new regime has been taking over and it kicked into high gear this week. Under the previous regime, bonds (which dictate rates) were operating on the following p...
