Ceasefire Uncertainty Adds to Losses

Market Summary: Tuesday, April 21, 2026 - 9:31PM

Bonds were just a bit weaker this morning after the weekly ADP data. Just before 11am ET, several newswires called ceasefire negotiations into question. Chief among these was a report that Iran had not confirmed its intent to participate. Despite the seemingly significant consequences, bonds only rose about 2bps in terms of 10yr yields. By the 3pm CME close, yields were up less than 4bps on the day and still well inside the prevailing consolidation range. There's been a bit more weakness since then owing to new headlines indicating that neither Iran nor JD Vance are attending Wednesday's planned talks in Pakistan.

Market Movement Recap

- 08:32 AM Modestly weaker after weekly ADP data. No reaction to Retail Sales. MBS down 2 ticks (.06) and 10yr up 1.9bps at 4.268
- 09:44 AM 10yr up 2.4bps at 4.275. MBS down 5 ticks (.16).
- 10:51 AM MBS down a quarter point and 10yr up 4.6bps at 4.296
- 02:44 PM Sideways since previous update. MBS still down a quarter point and 10yr up 4.4bps at 4.295
- 03:56 PM MBS are now down nearly 3/8ths and 10yr up almost 6bps at 4.308
- 04:15 PM MBS back to only being down a quarter point and 10yr up only 4.4bps at 4.294

Bouncing Back as Trump Extends Ceasefire

Bonds are right back in line with the levels from before the last alert after the following newswire:

TRUMP: EXTEND THE CEASEFIRE UNTIL IRAN PROPOSAL SUBMITTED

A few lenders had already repriced. Another few could already be in motion. Otherwise, this largely alleviates negative reprice risk mentioned in the last alert.

Highest Rates in a Week But There's a Catch

Technically and officially, today's average top tier 30yr fixed mortgage rate is the highest since last Monday. The catch is that there hasn't been much movement since then with the overall range being limited to 0.04%.

Today's jump was the largest upward movement during that time. There was some upward pressure on rates from stronger employment data in the morning, but the market was even more focused on the uncertain status of US/Iran peace talks.

As the domestic business day winds down, it doesn't look like there will be concrete news on a ceasefire extension. As such, volatility potential remains elevated heading into Wednesday.

Mortgage Rates Didn't Fall as Much as The Market Suggested

The good news: mortgage rates ended the week at the lowest levels in more than a month. The puzzling news: rates fell only modestly on Friday even though the bond market said they could have fallen more. Mortgage lenders consider several factors when deciding where to set mortgage rates. By far and away, the bond market is the most important of those factors. But sometimes rates don't do exa...
