Complete Recap of Today's Market Activity

Hurrying Up And Waiting

Market Summary: Wednesday, April 22, 2026 - 12:37PM

As a testament to just how confident the market is/was that neither side is overly interested in escalating the Iran war, Tuesday night's ceasefire deadline has come and gone with surprisingly little fanfare. Yes, the ceasefire was technically extended, but the more relevant point is that oil prices have traded inside a 4 dollar range that covered both the bullish and bearish potential outcomes. We've been saying for several weeks that the next big move for the bond market will be reserved for a truly momentous development such as the complete end of hostilities/blockades or a massive escalation into full-blown war. As it stands, it's a waiting game as Friday is now the earliest window for a potential resumption of peace talks.

Market Movement Recap

- 09:27 AM MBS up 3 ticks (.09) and 10yr down 1.9 bps at 4.276
- 12:23 PM MBS now unchanged and 10yr also unchanged at 4.297

Lows of The Day

Selling has been slow and steady since the open. This alert doesn't indicate a specifically scary dip in prices. Rather, it's a heads up that the modest selling now accounts for an eighth of a point drop versus many lenders' rate sheet print times. As such, negative reprices can't be ruled out for the jumpier lenders. That said, risks would be higher if we lose a few more ticks.

MBS MORNING: Hurrying Up And Waiting

UPDATE: Bouncing Back as Trump Extends Ceasefire

Today's Mortgage Rates

30YR Fixed 6.32% -0.01% | 15YR Fixed 5.90% -0.02% 4/22/2026

Highest Rates in a Week But There's a Catch

Technically and officially, today's average top tier 30yr fixed mortgage rate is the highest since last Monday. The catch is that there hasn't been much movement since then with the overall range being limited to 0.04%.

Today's jump was the largest upward movement during that time. There was some upward pressure on rates from stronger employment data in the morning, but the market was even more focused on the uncertain status of US/Iran peace talks.

As the domestic business day winds down, it doesn't look like there will be concrete news on a ceasefire extension. As such, volatility potential remains elevated heading into Wednesday.

Mortgage Rates Didn't Fall as Much as The Market Suggested

The good news: mortgage rates ended the week at the lowest levels in more than a month. The puzzling news: rates fell only modestly on Friday even though the bond market said they could have fallen more. Mortgage lenders consider several factors when deciding where to set mortgage rates. By far and away, the bond market is the most important of those factors. But sometimes rates don't do exa...
